
Findlay Group are a family run construction organization specializing in specific fields of the construction market, where we have accumulated a wealth of knowledge not only within our administration team, but also by our site operatives and application teams. Since the formation of the company in 1972 we have secured and completed some very prestigious projects, of which we have always ensured that by delivering a professional and satisfactory service to our clients, we are able to move forward as a recognized force and growing concern within the construction industry.

Asbestos Abatement Division.

Our newest member of the group is our asbestos abatement division headed by Lee Siggers, Findlay Environmental Ltd. This division covers all aspects of the asbestos industry, which include comprehensive surveys to a type I, II and III standard, as well as offering a management and consultancy service, conversant to the new hazardous waste regulations (July 2005).

Within the new division we are also licensed by the Health and Safety Executive to carry out all types of asbestos removal including asbestos insulation, asbestos coatings and asbestos insulation board, or depending on the logistics of the project we use methods of encapsulation to secure any identifiable hazards.

Due to our asbestos related work we have also acquired our license from the Environment Agency for the carriage and disposal of all hazardous waste materials arising from any project/sites and have initiated an extensive company environmental policy to ensure safe working practices, as we feel strongly about environmental issues here at Findlay Environmental Ltd.

Glazing Division

When Geoff Findlay initially formed the company in 1972, it was due to Geoff's Industrial and commercial glazing experience that prompted him to form Findlay Contractors Ltd and we have expanded in this field considerably under Geoff's personal guidance. We have acquired a good reputation within the industry and have numerous successfully completed projects involving the following disciplines relating to glazing: Patent glazing, including all sub frame assembly work, curtain walling and roof light installations, including detailing and site manufacture and assembly procedures where applicable. With several current projects on behalf of various prestigious clients working within the Metronet alliance for the London Underground, we are gaining the reputation as being one of the best contractors in this division.

Roofing Division

Our roofing division is headed by a management team led by Ian Baker, who have joined forces with Geoff Findlay since 1993, in creating a considerable force within the cladding industry and we are able covers all metal roofing systems from a wide range of profiles to specific site panels, single skin and built up systems as required by architects and a varying range of clients. We are recognized as approved erectors by companies Such As Kingspan, Quedron, Brett martin and most over roof profile manufacturers in applying a wide variety of roofing products, including flat roof and membrane type systems for all forms of application.

We specialize in the refurbishment and renovation of existing buildings and our management and erection teams have over the years gained a wealth of experience to call upon from projects ranging as far a field as Southern Africa. We are also able to take on light steel fabrication projects, as well as any site erection for prefabricated structures specifically designed for the cladding industry.

Summary

Not only do we feel that we can guarantee a reliable service and high standards of workmanship for all of our disciplines, but we are also able to offer a competitive pricing structure to our clients that ensure satisfaction to all parties when negotiating the final stages of a contract and setting out work schedules to allow timely application of projects.

Our insurance cover at present is £10 million Public Liability and unlimited Employers Liability, however, should the need arise where this cover needs to be increased, then specific project arrangement's can be made within 24 hours of notice.

We hope the above information has been informative about our company and I can assure you of our best attention at all times, when dealing with client enquiries or assisting in pricing projects on your behalf.
